

Ain Shams University

Faculty of Al-Asun

Department of Arabic Language

Arabic Language Program for Non-Native Speakers

Graduate Attributes

Arabic Language Program for Non-Native Speakers

1.1. Academic and scientific capabilities

The graduate should be able to:

1. Read, write, and speak in Arabic.
2. Read Arabic texts that reflect the Arab-Islamic culture in order to understand them and their cultural backgrounds.
3. Understand the characteristics of different Arabic literary genres.
4. Practice cultural communication and exchange between the Arab-Islamic culture and his home culture
5. Compare Arabic language and literature and his native language and its literature.
6. Adopt a method of critical analysis and creative logical thinking.
7. Translate from his mother tongue into Arabic and vice versa.
8. Use electronic learning tools.
9. Conduct scientific research.
10. Employ acquired knowledge and skills to serve the goals of his society.

1.2. National / Cultural Attributes

The graduate should be able to:

1. Make achievements on the academic and personal levels to serve his society.
2. Demonstrate initiative and humanitarian and cultural motivation to contribute to the intellectual and cultural development of his society.
3. Use knowledge within an ethical framework that aims at serving humanity.
4. Link between different types of knowledge.

5. Respect other opinions and cultures and accept other people's differences.
6. Participate in cultural projects, such as translation, scientific research and linguistic, literary, critical and contrastive studies, that aim at supporting communication between Al-Ahsan and similar faculties, cultural institutions and civil society organizations inside and outside the country
7. Display awareness of his important role in intercultural dialogue.

II. Acquired knowledge and skills

2.1. Key knowledge and concepts:

The graduate should be able to:

1. Recognize grammatical, morphological and phonetic rules of the Arabic language.
2. List different literary genres and eras in Arabic literature.
3. Identify the sciences of Arabic rhetoric.
4. Understand specialized terminology in linguistics and literature
5. Give explanation for different Arabic texts and their cultural backgrounds
6. List different types of translation.
7. Distinguish the key characteristics of different texts
8. Recognize different approaches of literary criticism
9. Understand the relation between Islamic culture and sciences and Arabic language
10. Understand Islamic culture and history

2.2. Mental skills:-

The graduate should be able to:

1. Analyze literary texts.
2. Critique literary texts using different literary criticism approaches
3. Compare different linguistic and literary approaches
4. Compare linguistic and literary terms
5. Identify and solve linguistic problems
6. Infer and summarize main ideas in different texts.

7. Recognize the factors leading to the flourishing of Islamic culture

III. Special practical skills:-

The graduate should be able to:

1. Read Arabic poetry and prose correctly
2. Use Arabic in writing an essay, article or a research paper
3. Translate various texts from his mother tongue into Arabic, and vice versa.
4. Use Arabic sources and references
5. Apply scientific research methodologies

IV. General skills:

The graduate must be able to:

1. Work in a team.
2. Manage time efficiently.
3. Maintain accuracy and academic integrity
4. Engage in effective communication and constructive dialogue with others.
5. Demonstrate effective presentation skills using modern technology.
6. Make decisions and employ information to solve social problems.
7. Express his point of view on controversial issues and present the relevant arguments